Written Narration: Grade 5

☐ Plan to complete three written narrations every week and consider increasing to four by the end of the year.

☐ Written narrations can happen after reading at the end of any lesson, if time allows, and do not need to take up an extra 10 minutes in your schedule. This tracker serves to help you keep records of what was done throughout the year.

☐ To keep written narrations fresh and interesting, have your student try narrating in different ways (lessons sometimes include specific suggestions): In addition to just “what did we read about?”, you can ask students to:

- “Write the story of ____.” (Example: “Write the story of the battle of Troy.”)

- Imagine they are a character in the story and write what happened as a diary entry (Example: pretend you are Christian in Pilgrim's Progress and write a letter or diary entry telling what happened to him in today's chapter.)
- For those who want a challenge, tell back the reading as a poem or a comic strip style narration, combining illustration and words.

□ Make sure students are practicing typing skills regularly, and have them increasingly type more narrations as they become comfortable.

Term Prep & Teacher Tips

Written Narration: Grade 5

Some ideas on helping students transition to written narration:

- Write down words on a whiteboard if a student wants to use a word they don't know how to spell.
- Have students write down brief sentences (even numbered statements) telling the sequence of events and then have them orally give more details about each of them.
- Write the beginning and then orally tell the rest, or vice versa.
- Some students may find writing easier if you provide external supports before writing, such as index cards that can be arranged and re-ordered. You can also encourage students to talk aloud as they write or use speech-to-text and then edit.

Term 1

WEEK 1  10m Written Narration: Grade 5 - Lesson 1 Tracker:    → WRITTEN NARRATION Complete three written narrations this week. Make sure to write from a variety of different subjects, either over the course of the term or at least the year. → NOTE Written narrations can happen after reading at the end of any lesson if time allows and do not need to take up an extra 10 minutes in your schedule. This tracker serves to help you keep records of what was done throughout the year. If the student is new to written narration, they may fatigue quickly. Allow them to initially write a bit and tell the rest. Some may do better by first orally narrating and discussing as usual, then writing a sentence or so of that narration. Others may do better by beginning their narration in writing, then completing it orally. If students are typing fluently, consider allowing them to type their written narrations.	★ TEACHER TIP Note that students who are struggling with their penmanship should begin written narrations slowly. Instead of using every slot for written narrations, use the time to have students work on skills that will better support their development, such as climbing on trees or playground equipment, doing household chores, working with clay or dough, and doing mazes and dot-to-dot activities. Also, be sure to include typing in life skills!
WEEK 2  10m Written Narration: Grade 5 - Lesson 2 Tracker:    → WRITTEN NARRATION Complete three written narrations this week. Make sure to write from a variety of different subjects, either over the course of the term or at least the year.	★ TEACHER TIP Make sure students are practicing typing skills regularly, and have them increasingly type more narrations as they become comfortable.
WEEK 3  10m Written Narration: Grade 5 - Lesson 3 Tracker:    → WRITTEN NARRATION Complete three written narrations this week. Make sure to write from a variety of different subjects, either over the course of the term or at least the year.	★ TEACHER TIP Some students may find writing easier if you provide external supports before writing, such as index cards that can be arranged and re-ordered. You can also encourage students to talk aloud as they write or use speech-to-text and then edit.
