How To Approach

Read

The lesson plans will guide you through what to read over the terms. Take a moment before reading to remember where you left off last time.

Narrate

The lesson plans will give you specific instructions or tell you to choose a way to narrate that helps you interact with the ideas.

Discuss

The lesson plans will guide you with questions or instructions to share your ideas or what you are reading with others.

Teacher Note

These lessons are written directly to students, but to assist them throughout the year, please read through this section and the lesson plans so you are familiar with the instructions and flow of the lessons. Accountability components are occasionally added to facilitate teacher/student discussion and growing independence.

It is also valuable for those in a classroom setting to have a mix of lessons that students complete themselves silently and others read aloud and narrate together. Literature lessons lend themselves well to a larger discussion time at the end of the lesson where student can share their ideas.

Term 1

WEEK 1 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 1

Materials: The Word Made Fresh

→ READ, NARRATE, & DISCUSS

p.87-89 "in the introduction" - "dynamic surprise."

- What do you think about the idea of poetry as friendship?
- Throughout this course, keep a personal anthology of poems that you've read and liked in your journal. Van Engen starts his book by encouraging us to browse an anthology until we come across a poem that we resonate with in some way, and then to start noticing what poems we like, expanding our circle of friends.

★ TEACHER NOTE

If you are jumping into this course, feel free to read the previous chapters on your own time. However, several sections in the upcoming chapter review some of the previous concepts, so it is perfectly fine to start here!

WEEK 1 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 2

Materials: Journal

→ REFLECT

Journal about this quote and reflection questions from p.263, "Ch.4, Think of Poetry Like Friendship, #1":

"If we think of approaching a poem like we might approach a friend, it changes the way we read it. We will pass over many people, many poems, until we find something we share. And very often that shared ground will nourish some form of pleasure or delight. But a good friend, in the end, always brings more than we bargained for. The more we spend time together and the more we converse, the more layers our conversations reveals (88)."

- Have you experienced a good friendship? Are you open to being surprised, nourished, challenged, and confronted? When has that happened? What does that look like? Have you experienced any sort of book or poem as a good friend before?

WEEK 2 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 3

Materials: The Word Made Fresh

→ READ, NARRATE, & DISCUSS

p.89-91 "With that in mind" - "at once."

- Can you think of a time when you learned something unexpectedly from a friend?

WEEK 2 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 4

Materials: Anthology & Journal

→ READ & REFLECT

Use your anthology of choice and read some poetry today. Look for a poem that might become a new friend! Start your personal anthology of poems you like in your journal.

WEEK 3 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 5

Materials: The Word Made Fresh

→ READ, NARRATE, & DISCUSS

p.91-93 "To illustrate" - "it yields."

Term 1

- Van Engen writes, "Poetry dwells, quite often, in pictures and particulars." Give examples of where you have seen this to be true in poems you have read.

WEEK 3 15m Poetry Study: Grade 11 - Lesson 6

Materials: Anthology

→ READ & REFLECT

Read more poems today. Read a poem that catches your attention at least twice and at least once out loud. What "particulars" does it contain?
