About the Course

This course includes the following topic(s): General Lit.: Grades 11-12, History of Lit: Grades 9-12, Plays: Grades 9-12, Poetry Reading: Grades 9-12

About Plays: Grades 9-12

Students read Shakespeare's plays with additional optional readings and extra helpings from the time period.

About Poetry Reading: Grades 9-12

In addition to reading a variety of poems from 19th century authors, students read biographies of two famous 19th century poets and dive into Virgil's Aeneid.

About General Lit.: Grades 11-12

Journey into the 19th century via novels, short stories, personal narratives, fairy tales, and more. Students engage with a variety of authors and texts from and about the time period and reflect on literary techniques and the characteristics of multiple genres along the way.

About History of Lit: Grades 9-12

Using Marshall's and Long's spines along with a variety of primary sources and additional readings, the History of Literature course introduces students to literary movements and figures in the 19th century. The course prioritizes influential texts in the English-speaking world but also seeks to give students glimpses at literary developments across the globe.

About Poetry Study: Grades 11-12

This course helps students explore and enjoy poems on many levels; lessons include practice in both writing and reading poetry.

Plays: Grades 9-12

William Shakespeare (1564-1616) is perhaps the greatest writer in the English language. Reading and speaking his beautiful words will delight students as they learn his timeless stories, meet a variety of characters, enrich their minds, and instruct their consciences. Students will begin by simply enjoying the plays and later by writing short compositions, comparisons, and commonplace entries. Shakespeare covers the wide panorama of human experience through his nearly 40 plays; the comedies, tragedies, and histories that students read will spark their imaginations with stories that transcend time and culture.

Placement & Combining Tips

Plays: Grades 9-12

This year, this course is the same as Shakespeare for Grades 5-8 with the only difference coming in Extra Helpings and additional options for further study.

Poetry Reading: Grades 9-12

Students new or struggling in their relationship with poetry should use Grade 8 lessons.

General Lit.: Grades 11-12

Some books shared with other high school grades. Literature, history, and geography lessons work in sync in Grades 9-12, so it is best to consider all three together when placing students.

History of Lit: Grades 9-12

Lessons are shared across high school grades with grade-specific assignments in the lesson plans as appropriate.

Poetry Study: Grades 11-12

Prerequisite: Grade 9 Poetry Study or a familiarity with a variety of poems and a strong working understanding of poetic forms and terminology. Note: the main text used is begun in Grade 10 Poetry study, but students do not need to complete Grade 10 lessons before beginning this course.

Plays: Grades 9-12

- ☐ You may want to read "Shakespeare and a Christian Worldview," which is Ch.9 in the book Echoes of Eden – Reflections on Christianity, Literature, and the Arts by Jerram Barrs. This is an excellent overview of why Shakespeare is important for everyone to know, including Christians.
- ☐ If your students are new to Shakespeare, read the tips for beginners (Found in Appendix link)

- ☐ You may want to read a retelling beforehand so you are familiar with the play. (Suggestions found in Extra Helpings)
- ☐ Read the discussion questions and skim the summaries of each scene each week before the reading to help guide emphasis and discussion with your students.
- ☐ Consider purchasing puppets to use while reading to keep track of all the characters.

NOTE on VERSIONS

Students should have an unabridged copy that is not in a modern language edition, such as the ones linked in the program. The language complexity gets easier to understand with practice. (Note: Shakespeare's work does often contain bawdy jokes or off-color content that will go over the heads of students if left in its original form; a modern language version will lay it all right out there in plain, modern English.) We like the Folger editions because they are inexpensive, the lines are numbered (making it easy to find your place), and they contain good notes. These are available on the Folger website as free PDFs as well, though the notes are omitted.

NOTE on CONTENT

Teachers are sometimes wary of reading Shakespeare with their students because the plays do contain material that they would deem inappropriate. The Alveary generally follows Mason's programs for younger students. That does not mean, however, that your student will never encounter anything unsavory. Our best advice is to read in such a way that these things are moved over quickly, without added attention being drawn to them. Mason assures us that Shakespeare provides students with rich language and character lessons that are unparalleled.

General Lit.: Grades 11-12

☐ The Scarlet Letter (Term 1) and Sense & Sensibility (Term 3) both have helpful introductions and discussion questions (listed after each chapter or section of the book). Read these, whether or not you are able to read the full book, to give yourself the resources for rich discussions with your students. Reading Like a Serpent (linked in Extra Helpings) is also an excellent resource for students and teachers wishing to dive deeper into The Scarlet Letter.

☐ A note on challenging content: While the upper grades provide many wonderful opportunities for discussion and growth, these are not children's books. The Scarlet Letter (Term 1) wrestles with the nature of sin and adultery, Ramayana (Term 1) includes a more overtly sexual myth, which is skipped in Ch.1, and a few more sexual comments in Ch.2 when the prince (in typical mythological fashion) passes a test to claim his wife. Singing Bird (Term 2) also has a brief description of a sexual encounter in Ch.21 intended to humanize the characters in the middle of a horrific situation. Similarly, there is a passage in Octavian Nothing (Term 2), early in section 2, "The Pox Party," where Octavian (who is hungry for good books to read) is coerced into translating sexually explicit Latin texts in return for smuggled books from his master's library. There is one example of a sentence he was asked to translate given in the book, and he is disgusted with it. Additionally, prepare your students for hard themes, especially in Singing Bird and Octavian Nothing, including slavery, war, and the cruel and abusive treatment of people and animals. It is sobering to consider wickedness and suffering; encourage students to grieve, and long for and look to the person who can put things right, Jesus, who brings perfect justice and love.

These books have many living ideas, examples of incredible resilience, and more. But it is a good idea to plan to read and/or discuss these books alongside your student(s), especially since they may be assigned much harder texts, or texts from a much less morally aligned perspective in college classes, when they will need to know how to approach these situations wisely on their own without you there to guide them.

☐ One way to approach conversations about content is to ask your student their thoughts on the section or chapter with the sexual or violent content and bring up the fact that they might not have encountered something like it before. Then, ask why they think the author included it in the book. Or, you might discuss the importance of skimming over something.

☐ Term 3 reads are both long novels. Especially for Tale of Two Cities, allow students time to narrate and enjoy the story; only about half is scheduled over the term. If you want to finish the book, start it in Term 2 after Gulliver's Travels, or allow students to read on their own time and use the allotted lesson time for extended written narrations and reflection.

History of Lit: Grades 9-12

☐ Print off the History of Literature PDF, as students will need to annotate and mark up various sections throughout the year.

☐ Although sources were condensed into one PDF when possible, there are still quite a few outside links due to the number of primary sources referenced, so make sure your student(s) has/have access to the internet for their course.

Poetry Study: Grade 11

☐ You'll need a journal and a poetry anthology or two of your choice for this course, as well as the assigned book. A few suggested anthologies are listed in Extra Helpings.

Literature: Grade 11

How To Approach

Read

The lesson plans will guide you through what to read over the terms. Take a moment before reading to remember where you left off last time.

Narrate

The lesson plans will give you specific instructions or tell you to choose a way to narrate that helps you interact with the ideas.

Discuss

The lesson plans will guide you with questions or instructions to share your ideas or what you are reading with others.

Teacher Note

These lessons are written directly to students, but to assist them throughout the year, please read through this section and the lesson plans so you are familiar with the instructions and flow of the lessons. Accountability components are occasionally added to facilitate teacher/student discussion and growing independence.

It is also valuable for those in a classroom setting to have a mix of lessons that students complete themselves silently and others read aloud and narrate together. Literature lessons lend themselves well to a larger discussion time at the end of the lesson where student can share their ideas.

Term 1

WEEK 1 □ 30m History of Lit: Grades 9-12 - Lesson 1

Introduction - Romanticism

📄 Materials: History of Lit PDF

→ INTRO

What authors and books come to mind when you think about literature in 19th century? You may be familiar with terms such as the "Romantic period" or "Victorian period." Tell or jot down anything that comes to mind.

Over the year we'll learn about the lives and writings of people who wrote from about 1800-1900 AD. These individuals wrote in a wide array of genres: poetry, essays, short stories, plays, science fiction, mysteries, thrillers, children's stories, and more. When possible, the readings scheduled in History of Lit will align with what you are reading in your Poetry and General Literature courses.

We'll focus on authors who wrote in English but will also spend some time getting a taste for influential texts written in other languages as well. Every culture has significant texts and stories, so while we're limited in this course to English texts and texts translated into English, it's important to remember there is a world of books and literary traditions from cultures around the world which we don't have the time or often the language to read in this course!

English writings from the end of the 18th century into the first half of the 19th century are sometimes grouped together as part of the "Romantic Period." As with any generalization, this is a label scholars have put on the time frame as they look back, not something authors were so much thinking about consciously as they wrote, although as we will see, writers and poets from this period were often aware that their style of writing was something new.

→ READ, NARRATE, & DISCUSS

∞ PDF Link: History of Lit PDF "The Romantic Period" p.#-# (7 pages)

- What are some of the themes to look out for when you read literature from the Romantic Period? How did Romantic writers break with the traditions of Classicism? Do you recognize any ideas about poets and poetry in this reading that are still current today? How would you say our time is different or similar? What "rules" define literature written in English today?

WEEK 1 □ 15m Poetry Reading: Grades 9-12 - Lesson 1

Transition from Classicism to Romanticism

→ INTRO

Towards the end of the eighteenth century, writers were beginning to break from the rules of Classicism and experiment with poetic subject matter and form that, in retrospect, seem more aligned with the themes of Romanticism. Today, you will read a few works by three poets who bridge these two time periods: Thomas Gray, William

Cowper, and Robert Burns.

- What do you think about the idea of poetry as friendship?
- Throughout this course, keep a personal anthology of poems that you've read and liked in your journal. Van Engen starts his book by encouraging us to browse an anthology until we come across a poem that we resonate with in some way, and then to start noticing what poems we like, expanding our circle of friends.

★ TEACHER NOTE

If you are jumping into this course, feel free to read the previous chapters on your own time. However, several sections in the upcoming chapter review some of the previous concepts, so it is perfectly fine to start here!

"If we think of approaching a poem like we might approach a friend, it changes the way we read it. We will pass over many people, many poems, until we find something we share. And very often that shared ground will nourish some form of pleasure or delight. But a good friend, in the end, always brings more than we bargained for. The more we spend time together and the more we converse, the more layers our conversations reveals (88)."

- What experiences does "Those Winter Sundays" make you think of? Our imaginations are funny things. Have you ever thought about the fact that if someone says, "imagine a chair," to a group of people, everyone will imagine a chair? But if you ask them to describe what they are imagining, they will all describe different chairs. One person's chair is a rocking chair, another's is a bar stool, and another's is a lounge chair in a living room. Poems evoke certain connotations but bring up different resonances within each of us, depending on our experiences. And even similar experiences are still not identical for each of us.
