

World History

About the Course

Reading about the lives of people and events from the time period in many different parts of the world gives students a sense of the growing interconnectedness of the world at this time. A Little Book for New Historians in the third term casts a vision for what it means to think Christianly and historically as a student of history. It raises important questions of complexity, nuance, perspective, empathy, and humility as students enter the HS years.

This topic is included in the following course(s): History: Grade 9 (U.S.), History: Grade 9 (Canada)

Placement & Combining Tips

All the books are appropriate for any HS student. If a HS student is new to the Alveary, especially consider assigning the third term book, A Little Book for New Historians, no matter their grade.

World History: Grade 9

How To Approach

Recap

- Take a second to recall what you read previously in the same book or topic.
- If the previous passage is difficult to remember, try looking back at any chapter/section headings or illustrations or reading the first paragraph to jog the memory.

Read

- Read the selection assigned OR read for the number of minutes allocated, leaving time for narration and mapwork. Use whichever guide (i.e., pages or minutes) works best for you. You want to read enough to be interesting, but not so much that you feel overwhelmed.
- If a book is challenging for you as a student, try stopping to narrate to yourself silently for a minute every now and then to make sure you are tracking. You might also want to read aloud to yourself. Or you might want to listen to an audiobook version of the text and read along with it.
- If a book is an easy read, enjoy the ride!
- Keep an eye out for quotes to put in your commonplace book or events or characters to put down in your Book of Centuries.

Narrate

- Process and integrate your reading by narrating either orally or in writing. Some lesson plans will give you a suggestion of how best to narrate.
- To keep yourself on track, you might want to set a timer, so you stop reading with enough time to narrate.

Connect

- After your narration, think about how what you read connects to other subjects, other books, and other things you've read, watched, or seen in the past or present.
- Share any ideas that are particularly interesting to you with your fellow classmates, teachers, parents, friends, or others. You might even want to do a bit more reading or research on something on your own time in the afternoon or evenings.

Teacher Note

These lessons are written directly to the student, but to assist them throughout the year, please read through this section and the lesson plans so you are familiar with the instructions and flow of the lessons. Accountability components are added to facilitate teacher/student discussion and growing independence.

Those educating at home might pick one or two history lessons to read aloud with their students to keep up the habit of oral narration and foster conversation and relationship, and then simply give students these lesson plans and the rest of the books and check in with them throughout the term for conversation, support, and accountability.

It is valuable for those in a classroom setting to also have a mix of lessons that students complete themselves silently and others read aloud and narrated together. Classroom settings lend themselves well to additional discussion and sharing at the end of lessons, after everyone has narrated either together or independently in writing.

Term 1

WEEK 1 30m World History: Grade 9 - Lesson 1

Materials: A Little Book for New Historians

→ INTRO

History is more than just a study of the "past." The purpose of our first term reading of the book A Little Book for New Historians is to help you engage with the importance of not just knowing dates and places, but also engaging with what Robert Tracy McKenzie calls "the flesh and blood on the other side of the evidence."

As you read through Dr. McKenzie's history book, be on the lookout for interesting quotes or ideas that stand out to you, and be sure to mark whatever pages you find interesting. These are places you can return to and copy down in your notebook.

→ READ, NARRATE, & WRITE

Ch.1 p.11-18

Narrate silently to yourself. If this is a new practice for you, start by quietly talking aloud to yourself about what you just read in the chapter.

- In one paragraph, share your previous expectations of history as a subject and what the reading has challenged or changed.

WEEK 2 30m World History: Grade 9 - Lesson 2

Materials: A Little Book for New Historians

→ INTRO

So why should we care about the past? Why is it important that we know these people, places, and ideas that have gone before us? I invite you to think about these two questions for a moment before diving into the reading.

→ READ, NARRATE, & WRITE

Ch.2

Narrate quietly to yourself.

- Respond to the following question in one paragraph: Why should we care about the past?

WEEK 3 30m World History: Grade 9 - Lesson 3

Materials: Video

→ INTRO

Take the time to listen to the interview with Dr. Robert Tracy McKenzie. While you are watching it, think of your own questions you may have for Dr. McKenzie.

→ LISTEN & NARRATE

Listen to Chapter 1 - What is History?

Narrate silently.

Listen to Chapter 2 - Why Should We Care About the Past?

Narrate silently.

∞ Video Link: Why Should We Care About the Past?

Write down three questions you may have for a historian. Keep these questions in mind as you read through the rest of the book. If you do find an answer, you can make a note of it.
