

U.S. History

About the Course

Read about U.S. history from 1800-1900 through books that immerse students in the time period and allow them to see the world through the eyes of those who lived it. Through engaging narratives, history spines, primary source documents, and books that show different perspectives, students come to see history as more than dates and events and develop relationships with people from the past. Viewing images, looking at maps, and working on one's Book of Centuries are also part of developing this relationship.

This topic is included in the following course(s): History: Grades 7-8 (U.S.)

Placement & Combining Tips

U.S. history may be suitable for 9th graders as well if combining.

U.S. History: Grades 7-8

How To Teach

Prepare

- Read through the lesson and gather any necessary links.
- If you have not read the book, you may want to read the selected pages in advance.
- Decide which lessons/books to read together and which to have students read independently.

Recap

- Connect back to the previous lesson. Have students give a summary of what they remember. (Full narration is not necessary.)
- If the previous passage is difficult to remember, teachers may ask a leading question: "What can you tell me about..." Or students may try looking back at any chapter/section headings or illustrations or reading the first paragraph to jog the memory.

Introduce

- Use a picture, map, or engaging question to pique the student's interest in the day's lesson (often included in lesson plans).
- If necessary, talk about a few unfamiliar words that will be crucial to understanding.

Read

- Read the day's passage out loud or have the student read independently. Sometimes reading for the specified time is a better guide.
- If a book is challenging, try stopping to narrate every now and then rather than waiting until the end. It can also help to read aloud. Or you might want to use an audiobook version of the text and have students read along with it.
- Have students keep an eye out for events or characters to add to their Citizenship Notebook, Book of Centuries, or Copywork Book.

Narrate

- Have students retell the passage orally or write a narration.
- Alternatively, students might analyze a character, trace cause to consequence, outline a passage, or use one of the other methods indicated by Charlotte Mason in School Education Chapter 16, especially p.180.
- Students who enjoy writing can experiment with different types of written narrations, but this is not required.

Discuss

- Give the student an opportunity to share thoughts on the lesson and any connections made (orally or in writing).

- You could ask them what they thought about the passage or ask an open-ended question to stimulate discussion. Discussion questions are often included in the lesson plans.

Connect

- Optional: Add something to the Book of Centuries, Century Chart, Citizenship Notebook, or Commonplace book. If students would like to include pictures, these may be drawn or printed.

WEEK 1 30m U.S. History: Grades 7-8 - Lesson 1

The War of 1812

Materials: PDF Link

→ INTRO

1. This year you are studying the time period 1800-1900. The books we are reading begins in 1820. Today's lesson will highlight some significant events that happened before 1820 and we will begin the book next week. The American Revolution ended in 1783 with the signing of the Treaty of Paris where the U.S. was acknowledged as a sovereign nation. In 1800, the U.S. population totaled 5.3 million, including one million African Americans, of whom 900,000 were enslaved.

2. Imagine what life was like in the U.S. in the early 1800's. Describe what you know about transportation, communication, food production, and clothing. Many important inventions were created during this time and people's way of life changed due to the Industrial Revolution. Watch this video to learn more about this.

Where can we find the words "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness"? (Declaration of Independence) What would you say is happiness? What did people in the 1800's think it was? For many people it meant owning land. This year, you will read extensively about people exploring new lands, migrating to new places, and the formation of new states.

Meeting Louis Hughes

Materials: A Year in the South: 1865

→ INTRO

In 1832, a baby is born in around Charlottesville, Virginia. His name would be Louis Hughes. He would be the son of a black mother and a white father and he would live through the events of the Civil War. In his old age, he would write a memoir, sharing his life.

In A Year in the South, author and Civil War historian Stephen Ash, uses the memoir and other additional primary sources to detail one of the eventful years in the history of the United States: 1865. This is the year that the civil war would come to an end. But what did the victory of the Civil War mean for the men and women still enslaved in the South? When did freedom come? These are just a few of the questions, Stephen Ash will answer in his book.

Meeting Cornelia

Materials: A Year in the South: 1865

→ INTRO

In the prologue of A Year in the South, Stephen Ash introduces his audience to Cornelia. He writes, "When 1865 began, Cornelia McDonald was forty-two years old and living in a rented house in Lexington, Virginia, with her seven children. She was a widow and a war refugee. The death of her husband, a Confederate army officer, and the loss of her home had brought her to the verge of poverty and despair."

Cornelia McDonald was born in Virginia. She was born in 1822 to a well off family. Her family had owned slaves and she had grown up never needing to work with her hands. How does the victory of the union in 1865 impact this young mother and widow?
