How To Teach

Prepare

Read the commentary to prepare.

Recap

Connect back to the previous lesson. Ask students to give a summary of what they remember. (Full narration is not necessary.)

Introduce

Use a picture, a map, or an engaging question to prepare students to receive the story. You may talk about one or two unfamiliar words that will be crucial to understanding.

Read

Read aloud from the Bible.

Narrate

Have the students narrate.

Share

Optional: Share something interesting from your preparation that will help shed light on the story.

Discuss

Give students an opportunity to share their thoughts on the story and any connections made.

Term 1

WEEK 1

30m Church History: Grades 7-9 - Lesson 1

William Wilberforce

Materials: Renewal: The Church that Expands Outward

→ INTRO

1. This year we are learning about people who lived during the 19th century (1800-1900). We will read how these Christians lived out Jesus' commands. When Jesus was asked what the greatest command was, he replied, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself." (Matthew 22:37-39)

2. Today you will read about an Englishman named William Wilberforce (1759-1833) who was a member of Parliament, the lawmaking group in the government of Great Britain. Parliament consisted of two houses: the House of Lords and the House of Commons. The English had been part of the slave trade since 1662. In 1770, out of total of one hundred thousand slaves a year from West Africa, British ships transported more than half. English considered the slave trade inseparably linked with the commerce and national security of Great Britain.

Sojourner Truth

Materials: Renewal: The Church that Expands Outward

Note: We are skipping the chapter on Charles Spurgeon since we are reading a whole book about him starting in Term 2.

→ RECAP

Who did you read about last week?

→ INTRO

Isabella Baumfree was born a slave to a Dutch master in New York c.1797. At age 46 or 47, she had a vision of God telling her to "travel up an' down the land showin' the people their sins an' bein' a sign unto them." This she did, with a new name that defined her mission—Sojourner Truth. Robert Moffat

Materials: Renewal: The Church that Expands Outward

→ INTRO

"Robert Moffat is sometimes regarded as the patriarch of South African missions, a man who had a significant influence in that region for more than half a century. Yet even during his own lifetime, he was overshadowed by his famous son-in-law, often being referred to as "the father-in-law of David Livingstone." Moffat, nevertheless, was the far greater missionary of the two. He was an evangelist, a translator, an educator, a diplomat, and an explorer, and he effectively combined those roles to become one of the truly great missionaries to Africa" (Ruth Tucker, From Jerusalem to Irian Jaya)

Hudson Taylor

Materials: Renewal: The Church that Expands Outward

→ INTRO

Hudson Taylor was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1832. His father was a pharmacist as well as a Methodist lay preacher who instilled in his son a passion for missions. Before he had reached his fifth birthday, the child was telling visitors that he wanted to some day be a missionary, and China (through the influence of his father) was the land that intrigued him the most. His sights were set on reaching the whole of China, all 400 million people, and to that end he labored, though not single-handedly. He had a knack for organization, and he possessed a magnetic personality that drew men and women to him and to his point of view. The China Inland Mission was his creation and was a model for future faith missions. In his own lifetime the missionary force under him grew to more than eight hundred, and in the decades following his death it continued to expand (Ruth Ticker, From Jerusalem to Irian Jaya).

Dr. Parker gets called to minister and work at a hospital in another village but Hudson is left alone to figure out where to go next and find a place to rent.

• Hudson Taylor mirrored the method and motive of the Apostle Paul who testified in 1 Corinthians 9:20ff: "To the Jews I became like a Jew, to win the Jews. To those under the law I became like one under the law (though I myself am not under the law), so as to win those under the law... What do you recall about your reading about Spurgeon from last time?

→ INTRO

In today's reading, Spurgeon's library of 12,000 books is mentioned. Spurgeon felt it was imperative that those who were teaching the Bible be learned and readers of books. In fact, he gave two pieces of advice about books to students: "1. Buy a few, high-quality books; 2. "Master those books you have." "Read them thoroughly," he wrote. "Bathe in them until they saturate you. Read and re-read them, masticate them, and digest them. Let them go into your very self. Peruse a good book several times, and make notes and analyses of it. A student will find that his mental constitution is more affected by one book thoroughly mastered than by twenty books which he has merely skimmed, lapping at them, as the classic proverb puts it 'As the dogs drink of Nilus.'"

He also is quoted as having said, "Visit many good books, but live in the Bible." As time allows, view the extra helping link to see a tour of a library that now holds half of his collection of books, including a commentary on Psalms from 1476.

There are two parts to your reading today. First, read the assigned pages in the biography of Spurgeon that discuss a controversy that came up. There was a movement called Higher Criticism that moved through churches in the mid-1800s. This movement caused people to have a lower view of the Bible, which Spurgeon was highly motivated to argue against. After reading the pages in the book, read the linked sermon which Spurgeon spoke during this time. You may split the sermon reading between this week and next week to fit the time allotted.

p.234-244

•In the first lesson on the biography of Spurgeon, we noted the author makes a statement that reads like a thesis statement or main point of what Spurgeon strived to keep in mind when telling others about the gospel (p.21): "The failure of preachers he had heard to present the gospel, and to do so in a plain, direct manner, caused him throughout his whole ministry to tell sinners in every sermon and in a most forthright and understandable way how to be saved." Now that you have read more on Spurgeon, do you think he was able to remain faithful to this goal or aim of his ministry? How?

WEEK 8

30m Church History: Grades 7-9 - Lesson 32

Materials: An Honorable Heritage: The Pandita Ramabai Story in Her Own Words

→ INTRO

This is the story of Pandita Ramabai who was born in India in 1858. She tells the story of her childhood, her hardships, and coming to faith in Christ. She also translated the Bible into Marathi so the uneducated women of lower castes could read the Bible. She has a remarkable story of how the light of the gospel found her in the darkest places.

→ BACKGROUND

India's caste system divides Hindus into four main categories - Brahmins, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas and the Shudras. Many believe that the groups originated from Brahma, the Hindu God of creation. At the top of the hierarchy were the Brahmins who were mainly teachers and intellectuals and are believed to have come from Brahma's head. Then came the Kshatriyas, or the warriors and rulers, supposedly from his arms. The third slot went to the Vaishyas, or the traders, who were created from his thighs. At the bottom of the heap were the Shudras, who came from Brahma's feet and did all the menial jobs. The main castes were further divided into about 3,000 castes and 25,000 sub-castes, each based on their specific occupation. Outside of this Hindu caste system were the achhoots - the Dalits or the untouchables. (from bbc.com)

Pandita's family was part of the Shudra caste—the one at the bottom that did the menial jobs.

dharma in a previous life. If someone gives himself to vice and moral degeneration, he will not be destroyed or cease to exist. Rather, he will continue in the cycle of reincarnation—as long as necessary—until his soul reaches nirvana and he becomes one with the Ultimate Reality. If someone lives a life of bad dharma, he will be reborn in a lower caste or as a lower life form in the next cycle. (From Ligonier Ministries)

→ BACKGROUND

During the Vedic Period of northern India, the cow was a symbol of wealth and prosperity, as well as one of the animals offered in ritual religious sacrifices. But over time, possibly through the influence of Buddhism and Jainism, animal sacrifices waned, and the cow emerged as a sacred symbol to Hindus. The five products of the cow—milk, curds, butter, urine, and dung—are used in purifying and healing rituals. One popular Hindu god, Krishna, spent his early life as a cowherd, further elevating the status of the cow. In some states of India, there are bans and strict regulations concerning the slaughter of cows and eating of beef.

Many rules concerning food govern a Hindu's life—when to eat, what to eat, and who can prepare food for whom. The preparation and consumption of food are central to a Hindu's notion of ritual purity and, ultimately, their liberation from rebirth. Not all Hindus are vegetarians, but vegetarianism is seen as an indicator of purity. Many high-caste Hindus are vegetarians. (From International Mission Board)

→ BACKGROUND

In the middle of the 19th century a spiritual revival known as the Oxford Movement began in the Church of England. Those involved came to be known as Anglo-Catholics whose aim was to recall the Church of England to its origins and to restore reverence and beauty in worship. Out of the Oxford Movement came the first religious orders to be founded since the Henry VIII of England dissolved the monasteries in 1536. The Community of St Mary the Virgin in was one of the first religious orders founded at this time in 1848 in Wantage, England. A religious order consists of members who lead a contemplative lifestyle devoted to prayer and service. There were branches in India, which is where Pandita first met them.
