

Econ/Civics

Canada

About the Course

This covers a variety of citizenship topics. Students spend the first term reflecting on the value of thinking for the Christian life or on building helpful habits. The second term focuses on government as students explore topics of government through a historical survey of Canada's Prime Ministers. The year finishes with a term of economics where students learn a variety of economic theories.

This topic is included in the following course(s): Citizenship: Grade 10 (Canada)

Placement & Combining Tips

Lessons are occasionally integrated with composition lessons. The book The Prime Ministers: Canada's Leaders and the Nation They Shaped will be read over two years (Grades 10 and 11). However, since this is the first year this book will be used, Grades 10 and 11 will have the same readings in 2026-2027.

How To Approach

Prepare

If you, the student, are learning at home, work to schedule a time with your teacher when you can complete the lessons from Ourselves or your Ethics reading together, as these lessons are much richer when shared and discussed.

Recap

Connect back to the previous lesson. (Optional for Current Events).

Introduce

For news sources: Scan the headlines first to get an overview, and then choose a story to read.

Read

Read the selection assigned or the news story chosen for the time assigned. For rich, dense, or more challenging books such as Ourselves, it is a good idea to read them aloud. Keep an eye out for quotes to put in your commonplace book or events or characters to put down in your Book of Centuries.

Narrate

Process and integrate your reading by narrating either orally or in writing. Some lesson plans will give you a suggestion of how best to narrate. To keep yourself on track, you might want to set a timer so you stop reading with enough time to narrate.

Connect

After your narration, think about how what you read connects to other subjects, other books, other things you've read or watched, or seen in the past or present. For current events, look up where events occurred on a map and ask questions together to discern the quality of the piece. (e.g., Are there sources cited? Is there an obvious bias? If so, what do other authors have to say on this subject? Are arguments supported by evidence? Is that evidence credible?) Consider reading an alternative perspective.

Citizenship Notebook

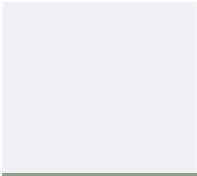

Record important ideas in your Citizenship Notebooks. Make a calendar of current events.

Teacher Note

These lessons are written directly to students, but to assist them throughout the year, please read through this section and the lesson plans so you are familiar with the instructions and flow of the lessons. You may also want to preview and choose which news sites to offer students.

Those educating at home might pick one lesson to read aloud (such as the Ethics readings on Cultural Engagement, Conscience, etc.) with their students to keep up the habit of oral narration and foster conversation and relationship and then simply give students these lesson plans and the rest of the books and check in with them throughout the term for conversation, support, and accountability.

It is valuable for those in a classroom setting to also have a mix of lessons, which students complete themselves silently, and others read aloud and narrated together. Classroom settings lend themselves well to additional discussion and sharing at the end of lessons, after everyone has narrated either together or independently in writing.

Term 1

WEEK 1 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 1

Materials: Think: The Life of the Mind and the Love of God; Journal or Notebook; a Bible
Materials: Atomic Habits: An Easy & Proven Way to Build Good Habits & Break Bad Ones; a Journal or Notebook; a Bible

→ INTRO

The Gospel of Matthew records a conversation between Jesus and a lawyer. "Teacher, which is the great commandment in the Law?" Jesus replied, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. On these two commandments depend all the Law and the Prophets" (Matt. 22:36-40). This term, you will be challenged to cultivate the life of the mind in a way that results in obedience to the first and great commandment.

→ READ

Introduction

→ REFLECT/WRITE

Read and reflect on how Romans 11:36 and Colossians 1:15-17 relate to the reading in the book. Jot down your ideas or discuss with someone.

→ INTRO

Habits play a significant role in Charlotte Mason's philosophy of education. According to Mason, "Now, habits which are allowed to fall into disuse are all the same as though they had never been formed; powers not exercised grow feeble and are lost. The ground which has been gained in half-a-dozen years may be lost in a single one" (Mason, Vol. 5, p.251). Mason reminds us that it is not only important to cultivate good habits, but it is equally imperative to exercise those habits, or else they will be lost.

This term, you will be led through several exercises to teach you how to identify and implement habits that result in life transformation. Some of these exercises include how to maintain the practice of habit-keeping so you do not lose momentum. You will refer to your journal or notebook several times during the term to complete the assigned exercises.

→ READ

Introduction - Ch.1

→ NARRATE

Take a moment to narrate silently or aloud the main ideas of the reading.

→ REFLECT & WRITE

Looking back at the chapter as needed, in your journal, contrast goals and systems. Reflect on your life practices to see if you can identify systems that are at work in your life currently. Jot those down.

Before you begin, read the short article How to Mark a Book by Mortimer Adler. This will equip you with reading techniques to help you interact with the reading in a deeper and more meaningful manner. Pay attention to the assigned reading. A couple of chapters may not be assigned, given the length of the book, but you are encouraged to complete the book when you have the opportunity.

WEEK 1 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 13

The Prime Ministers' Introduction and Sir John A. Macdonald

Materials: The Prime Ministers

→ INTRO

In his Introduction, J. D. M. Stewart recalls speaking to a group of high school students who could not recognize one of Canada's most well-known past Prime Ministers. How many can you name? What do you know about their time in office?

Stewart writes that if "we want to understand the country, it is imperative that we understand those who led it." This term, you will read the first half of his book The Prime Ministers, covering the years 1867-1963: nearly a century of Prime Ministers from John A. Macdonald to John Diefenbaker.

→ ANNOTATE

As your ability to read higher-level books in high school grows, it is helpful to learn new ways to interact with the text while you are reading to help you grasp what the author is saying. Non-fiction books are usually good candidates for annotating while you read. Maybe you want to underline the main ideas or interesting points. Maybe you want to put a question mark in the margin if something is unclear. Think about how to help yourself engage with the information in the book to make it your own. Recall what you learned in the previous term from How to Mark a Book.

∞ Article Link: How to Mark a Book by Mortimer Adler

Experiment with different ways to do that. Some students do best by recording themselves talking about the reading, while others may need to discuss the material with another person. Whatever you do, your annotations should help you to further solidify the main points or ideas in your mind. Write down any questions, comments, or connections that arise from your review of your annotations after reading. Try different ways and discuss your observations about what works well and what doesn't with your teacher.

Explore ways that might be most helpful for you as you read each week. Advances in technology make many more annotation options available to serve us and our various ways of processing. Some might do great with a pencil and a book, while others might benefit from colors, Post-its, or speech-to-text options.

For today, if you are new to this, start simply by putting a mark in the margin or a Post-it flag when you come across a main idea or an important point the author is making. For others who have been doing this already, see what new ways you might want to experiment with this term.

While reading The Prime Ministers, strive to make connections to ideas, events, and people you have come across in previous readings you have done. Each chapter gives a window into the period of Canada's history during which the particular Prime Minister served. They often faced similar issues, but addressed them quite differently.

As you read, also make notes of historical figures and events that are unfamiliar to you, and do further research on what interests you.

→ READ

p.ix-xi "A small anecdote illustrates" - "is to know ourselves."

p.1-12 "Sir John A. Macdonald" - "principal Father of Confederation."

- What were some of the major issues Macdonald addressed in his first term as Prime Minister?

Term 2

→ VIEW

With each new Prime Minister you learn about, look at their portrait reproduced in the photo pages between p. 180 and 181.

→ NARRATE

Narrate in a way that helps you interact with the ideas in the reading. For some, that might be narrating orally or silently to yourself, in writing, by drawing a map, a diagram, or a picture, writing a diary/letter from the point of view of one of the historical figures, describing what happened, or writing a bulleted list of points and questions. For others, it might be helpful to make marks in the book as you read and then narrate as you look at what you marked in the chapter. Experiment and see what works well for you, and you can vary your approach week to week.

WEEK 2 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 14

Term 3

WEEK 1 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 25

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ INTRO

Do an inspection review of this book. (Remember: Read the info on the back and front and skim a few random pages, etc.) Notice in particular the names under the Question headings. You will find some names recur often. In each lesson, you will encounter several economists and their approaches/positions on the issue; focus on the theory and the positions.

→ READ

p.6-7, 10-13

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE

- Discuss the theory of free market economics (p.11) and the reality of "trade-offs". What did you learn about externalities?
- If you are doing these lessons independently with no one to discuss them with, write down your thoughts.

TEACHER TIP:

Discussion of these lessons is very beneficial for the understanding of Economics.

WEEK 2 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 26

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ READ

p.14-18 & 19-22

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE

- What is utilitarianism (p.15), and what is the rational choice theory (p.17)?
- What did you learn about the principle of marginal utility? How is that applied in a Neoclassical theory?

WEEK 3 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 27

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ READ

p.23-26 & 28-31

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE

- Discuss the mutually beneficial agreements/Pareto efficiency (p.24).
- Write about how relative prospects play in behavioral theory. Include the text example and give an example of your own.

WEEK 4 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 28

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ READ

p.32-35 & 36-39

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE

- Discuss the section on recycling (p.36) and the different views related to external cost and social benefit. What makes the most sense to you and why?

WEEK 5 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 29

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ READ

p.40-43 & 44-47

Term 3

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE

- Discuss the economic theory of costs, benefits, and incentives (p.42).
- In what ways do incentives impact your decisions?

WEEK 6 40m Econ/Civics: Grade 10 (Canada) - Lesson 30

Materials: What Would Keynes Do?, notebook

→ READ

p.50-53

→ DISCUSS AND/OR WRITE
